

Have You Considered Studying An Elective or Option Study in Mathematics or Statistics?

Here are 66 Business and Commerce Professions Which Require Mathematical Skills

1. Accountant

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

2. Actuary

Actuaries analyse mathematical, statistical, demographic, financial and economic data in order to predict and assess the long-term risk involved in financial decisions and planning.

3. Administrator (Office)

Office administrators undertake a range of functions to make sure the administration activities within an organisation run smoothly.

4. Administrator (Project and Program)

Project and program administrators plan and administer programs, special projects and support services, including management or staff.

5. Administrator (Transport)

Transport administrators plan, organise and control the operational activities in road, rail, air and water transport.

6. Agricultural/Resource Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

7. Applied Industry Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

8. Auditor

Auditors examine the financial statements of companies and provide an opinion on whether the statements provide an accurate view of the company's financial performance.

9. Broker (Insurance)

An insurance broker is an independent agent who sells life, fire, accident and other forms of insurance for a range of insurance companies.

10. Budget Accountant

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

11. Bursar

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

12. Business (Systems) Analyst

Business (systems) analysts study the overall business and information needs of an organisation, in order to develop solutions to business and related technology problems.

13. Business Systems Planner

Business (systems) analysts study the overall business and information needs of an organisation, in order to develop solutions to business and related technology problems.

14. Commodities Trader

Financial dealers and traders buy and sell securities, such as shares in companies, on behalf of clients. They also advise clients on suitable investments and securities.

15. Company Secretary

Company secretaries make sure that the company complies with Acts of Parliament and government regulations, and that decisions of the board of directors are implemented.

16. Cost Accountant

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

17. Dealer/Trader

Financial dealers and traders buy and sell securities, such as shares in companies, on behalf of clients. They also advise clients on suitable investments and securities.

18. Econometrician

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

19. Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

20. Environmental Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

21. External Auditor

Auditors examine the financial statements of companies and provide an opinion on whether the statements provide an accurate view of the company's financial performance.

22. Finance Manager

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

23. Financial Dealer/Trader

Financial dealers and traders buy and sell securities, such as shares in companies, on behalf of clients. They also advise clients on suitable investments and securities.

24. Financial Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour. Economists advise a...

25. Financial Institution Branch Manager

Financial institution branch managers direct the local activities of the branches of banks and related financial institutions such as building societies and credit unions.

26. Financial Market Dealer

Financial dealers and traders buy and sell securities, such as shares in companies, on behalf of clients. They also advise clients on suitable investments and securities.

27. Health Promotion Officer

Health promotion officers work with various groups to improve the health of individuals and the community.

28. Human Resources Officer

Human resources officers provide administration services for the recruitment and employment of staff.

29. Insurance Broker

An insurance broker is an independent agent who sells life, fire, accident and other forms of insurance for a range of insurance companies.

30. Internal Auditor

Auditors examine the financial statements of companies and provide an opinion on whether the statements provide an accurate view of the company's financial performance.

31. Investment Analyst

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

32. Labour Market Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

33. Liquidator and Receiver

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

34. Logistics Officer (Transport)

Transport administrators plan, organise and control the operational activities in road, rail, air and water transport.

35. Management Accountant

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

36. Management Consultant

Management consultants study the procedures and systems used in an organisation to assess how individuals and the organisation as a whole can best operate.

37. Manager (Financial Institution Branch)

Financial institution branch managers direct the local activities of the branches of banks and related financial institutions such as building societies and credit unions.

38. Manager (Policy and Planning)

Policy and planning managers direct the development of policy advice and strategic planning within a government agency, community organization or company.

39. Manager (Project)

Project and program administrators plan and administer programs, special projects and support services, including management or staff.

40. Manager (Research and Development)

Research and development managers plan, administer and review the Research and Development (R&D) program and activities of an organisation.

41. Market Research Analyst

Market researchers collect and analyse information to assist in marketing and determine whether a demand exists for a particular product or service.

42. Market Research Interviewer

Market researchers collect and analyse information to assist in marketing and determine whether a demand exists for a particular product or service.

43. Market Researcher

Market researchers collect and analyse information to assist in marketing and determine whether a demand exists for a particular product or service.

44. Merchant Banker

Financial dealers and traders buy and sell securities, such as shares in companies, on behalf of clients. They also advise clients on suitable investments and securities.

45. Office Administrator

Office administrators undertake a range of functions to make sure the administration activities within an organisation run smoothly.

46. Office Manager

Office administrators undertake a range of functions to make sure the administration activities within an organisation run smoothly.

47. Patent Examiner

Patent examiners investigate patent applications and report on whether they comply with the requirements of Australian patent legislation before granting patent rights for new inventions.

48. Personnel Manager

Human resources officers provide administration services for the recruitment and employment of staff.

49. Policy and Planning Manager

Policy and planning managers direct the development of policy advice and strategic planning within a government agency, community organization or company.

50. Project and Program Administrator

Project and program administrators plan and administer programs, special projects and support services, including management of staff.

51. Project Manager

Project and program administrators plan and administer programs, special projects and support services, including management or staff.

52. Public Servant - State Government

Public servants - State government - are government employees who work in any of the departments of a state or territory government.

53. Real Estate Valuer

Valuers assess land, property and other items such as commercial equipment and objects of art; and provide advice on the administration and commercial use of land and property.

54. Research and Development Manager

Research and development managers plan, administer and review the Research and Development (R&D) program and activities of an organisation.

55. Resource Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

56. Secretary (Company)

Company secretaries make sure that the company complies with Acts of Parliament and government regulations, and that decisions of the board of directors are implemented.

57. Sharebroker

Financial dealers and traders buy and sell securities, such as shares in companies, on behalf of clients. They also advise clients on suitable investments and securities.

58. State Public Servant

Public servants - State government - are government employees who work in any of the departments of a state or territory government.

59. Stockbroker

Financial dealers and traders buy and sell securities, such as shares in companies, on behalf of clients. They also advise clients on suitable investments and securities.

60. Systems Accountant

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

61. Taxation Consultant/Taxation Agent

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

62. Taxation Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

63. Transport Administrator

Transport administrators plan, organise and control the operational activities in road, rail, air and water transport.

64. Transport Economist

Economists perform economic research and analysis, and develop and apply theories relating to the production and distribution of goods and services and people's spending behaviour.

65. Treasurer

Accountants analyse, report and give advice on the financial dealings of organisations and individuals, and advise on associated record-keeping and compliance requirements.

66. Valuer

Valuers assess land, property and other items such as commercial equipment and objects of art; and provide advice on the administration and commercial use of land and property.